

NEATCELL

Picosecond pen

Name of the relevant operating parts

Light picosecond

Operation method

General usage and precautions

1. Plug in the power, and the machine is energized, and the digital tube displays
2. Press the frequency mode select button to select the frequency, then set the output energy size
3. After setting, press the laser emission switch to output energy
4. During operation, wear protective glasses
5. Keep the machine clean and avoid contact with other contaminants
6. No unauthorized operation of the hand
7. After use, please keep it properly after cleaning

How to use

After connect the power supply adapter, press the frequency button, there are nine frequency models for setting, press the energy increment button to adjustment the energy size, finish the setting and press the laser emission switch button the and the blue light emits a laser everytime